NAGEL

AN ICON REIMAGINED

The iconic 1960's Nagel candle holder is revived by Danish design company, STOFF Nagel. Born from the visionary Hans Nagel and the artistic Werner Stoff, the iconic candle holder is a canvas for personal expression – stackable, modular, and entirely customizable. Today, the collection blends rediscoveries from the 1960's and 70's with contemporary designs, offering timeless pieces that inspire creativity. STOFF Nagel is a symbol of enduring elegance with its design DNA steeped in history. The pieces in the collection are sculptures in waiting, inviting its owner to create and reshape their surroundings. STOFF Nagel offers an experience – a chance to sculpt light and shadow and to engage with history.

The story

Born in the melting pot of impressions and cultural shifting, the history of STOFF Nagel holds a facinating story. From American cartridge cases transformed into decorative objects during the Second World War to a world-famous design considered among the most iconic of its time.

1945
2nd World War

Back in 1945 the Nagel family were deeply affected by the recent end of World War II. In an effort to create a new livelihood, the Nagel brothers including Hans Nagel collected American cartridge cases, which their blacksmith father transformed into decorative objects.

1960's
three holes in the snow

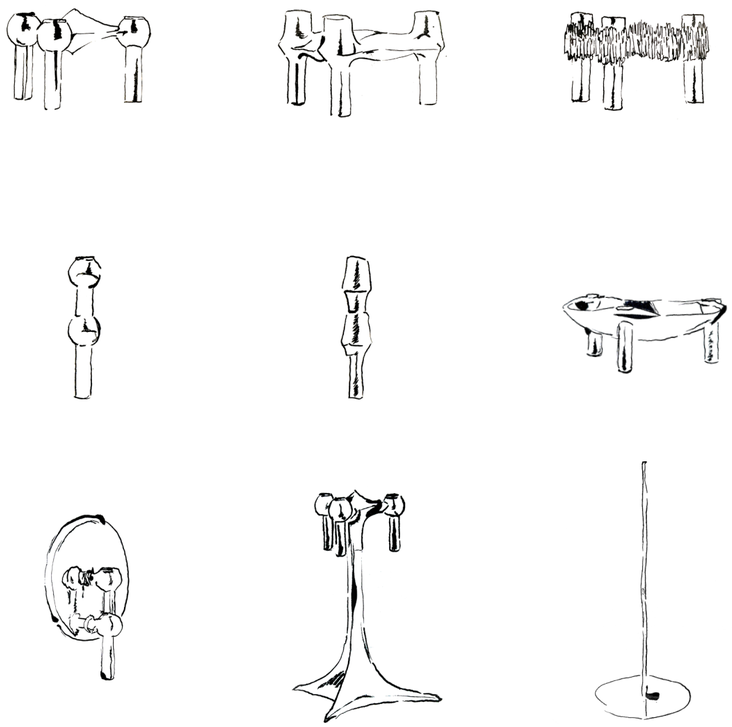

Merely twenty years after the end of the war, it was the architect Werner Stoff who in the late 1960's designed the original candle holder for Hans Nagel. During a skiing vacation in The Alps, Hans Nagel was strucked by an idea after an accidental backward tumble forced him to break the fall with his hand, thus creating the finest three finger holes in the snow. The holes brought to mind a sculptural candle holder design with room for three slim candles.

The shared love for good design and passion for art between the two artists launched an adventure of unforgettable design. The Nagel candle holder is the essence of form and functionality. A sculptural object for multiple purposes – in its purest function holding candles or exhibited as an art object.

the relaunch

For years, the iconic candle holder was out of production, but in 2015 Danish design company STOFF Nagel reintroduced the iconic piece using Werner Stoff's original drawings.

Adorned by collectors

After the revival of the iconic Nagel candle holder, the collection keeps expanding with more rediscoveries of 1960's and 70's designs alongside new product launches. Today, the collection consists of the Nagel, BMF and Quist candle holder, vases, bowl, stand, wall hanger, floor stand and exclusive candles. Every piece in the collection fits perfectly together honoring the original stackable concept envisioned by Werner Stoff and Hans Nagel.

A DESIGN COLLECTIBLE

The modular concept behind the STOFF Nagel collection is characterized by its ever-evolving presence within a given space. It is an invitation to collect and exhibit the pieces throughout the home - whether in towering sculptures or minimalist arrangements, the compositions are endless and in constant movement.

OBJECTS TO KEEP

A 1970'S RELAUNCH

In loving homage to modular design - a relaunch of the Quist candle holder, our newest rediscovery.

The Quist candle holder was first launched in Germany in the 1970's. The highly expressive design and striking shape holds a distinct presence, adding visual impact to its surroundings.

The modular design allows the candle holder to be endlessly reconfigured into unique and entirely customizable sculptures. Perfectly aligned with the stackable concept behind the STOFF Nagel collection. Today, the Quist candle holder relaunches and joins the STOFF Nagel collection to continue the vision of rediscovering iconic design.

NEW AW25
BRUSHED EDITION

This year we are launching a brushed finish - a new edition in our chrome and brass collection.

The new brushed edition stands out for its subtle elegance and refined finish, characterized by fine, linear strokes that give the surface a matte, satin-like texture. This delicate matte surface beautifully diffuses light, offering a gentle ambiance that enhances the atmosphere without overpowering it.

BRUSHED CHROME

This Autumn/Winter, we are introducing new brushed chrome editions to the STOFF Nagel candle holder collection: the iconic Nagel, Quist, and BMF designs. These brushed chrome pieces pair beautifully with the original shiny chrome editions, adding depth and visual interest to your candle holder sculpture.

SCU LPT URAL

The endless compositions of the iconic candle holder bring an infinite dialogue of arrangements created simply by adding and rearranging the candle holders, allowing for continuous interplay of forms. A sculptural element creating visual interest that excites the mind and brings a touch of wonder to a space.

Stoff nagel collection

The STOFF Nagel collection blends rediscoveries from the 1960's and 70's with contemporary designs. When combined, the modular pieces offer an experience – a chance to sculpt light and shadow and to engage with history. The pieces in the collection are sculptures in waiting, inviting you to create and reshape your surroundings. The modular design, initially conceived as a utilitarian object, has transcended its function to become a piece of art in its own right.

Nagel

Candle holder

The Nagel candle holder is a true design icon. A utilitarian testament to form and function, doubling as a sculpture honoring creative individualism. The iconic candle holder has been a bestseller in Europe for generations exhibited in the international world of art.

Care for your pieces

Solid brass & brushed brass

This special piece is made of solid brass and will naturally develop a patina over time. Since the product has not been coated, the patina begins as soon as it is produced. This is why your STOFF Nagel product may have traces of patina even as brand new.

If you get stains from candles or prefer your brass product to stay shiny, please follow these care instructions: Remove candle drips by placing the product in hot water until wax softens. To remove patina, place the brass product in a solution of hot water with 1 tbsp citric acid per ½ liter water and a drop of detergent. Leave for 10 min. Wipe with dry cloth. If it still shows signs of patina, use brass polish and wipe with dry cloth.

Bronzed brass

This special piece is made of solid brass that has undergone a process of oxidation to achieve the bronzed finish. Each piece has its own distinct patina, resulting in subtle variations in color. The holes are polished to create a clean brass surface. The brass is left untreated, allowing it to develop a natural patina over time. Remove candle drips by placing the product in hot water until wax softens. Avoid using any polish or acid as this will ruin the bronzed finish. Finish by wiping with a dry, soft cloth.

NOTE: Marks may occur on the legs after repeated stacking due to natural wear and tear unveiling a clean brass surface.

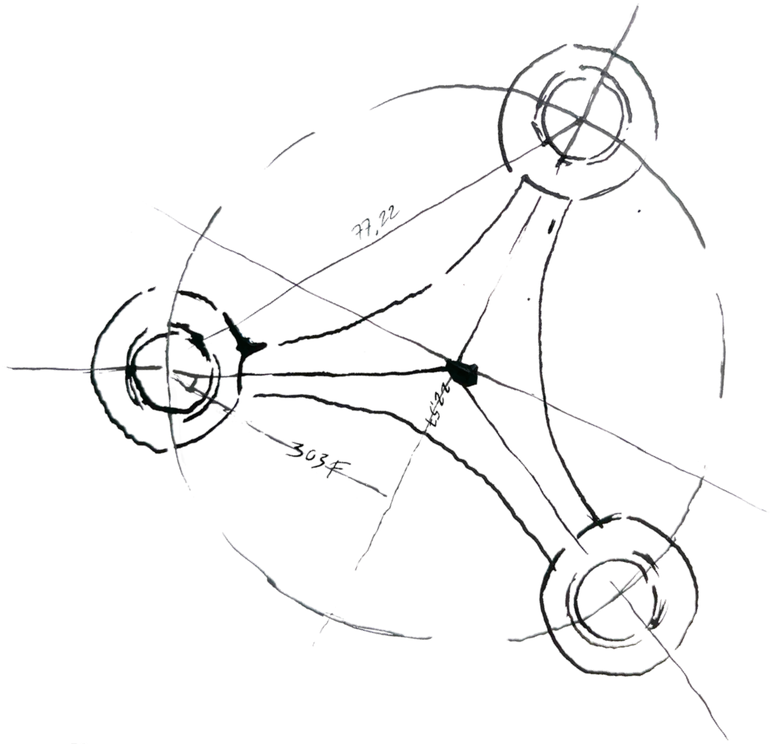

Chrome, black chrome, black & brushed chrome

This product does not require much maintenance. However, you may need to clean it from time to time to remove candle drips and dust. If you get stains from candles, you can remove candle drips by placing the product in hot water until wax softens. Avoid using any polish or acid as this will ruin the protective layer on the product. Finish by wiping with a dry, soft cloth.

NOTE: The three holes must be completely dry before stacking to avoid damaging the material.

The modular design, originally conceived as a utilitarian object, has transcended its function to become a sculptural concept, giving it a life beyond its original purpose. The collection tells an ever-evolving story, blending rediscoveries from past eras with new designs that reflect the present. STOFF Nagel offers a chance to participate in a narrative that spans decades.
